

Sharing my heart

(music + lyrics by Olivia Trummer)

I heard a song today when I listened to my heart About two handsome men who are rarely seen for they are living under my skin

One who takes me home when the birds invite the night And one who sends me out when the light is taking mischievously over again

Sharing my heart
like one shares rice or a spoon
Sharing my heart
like one shares candy or a balloon They're living as close as one can do under the moon

Just can't believe
just can't believe,
just can't believe they haven't met

(from the album „Fly Now“)